

Should Nurses be Doing More and Doctors be Doing Less?

More and more clinics are becoming nurse led

Nurses are taking on an ever increasingly specialised role

Should we stop here or should nurses be doing even more?

Come to the Young Civitas for Medics evening where we will listen to two speakers on the topic followed by an interactive discussion.

Young Civitas for Medics is an independent group of medical students and junior doctors who come together to discuss and debate issues of health policy, management and provision.

Dr Clare Geranda is a London-based GP and president of the RCGP and Professor Alan Maynard of York University has a particular interest in health care reform.

Voice your opinion and put your questions/suggestions to the speakers and fellow colleagues.

Dr Clare Gerada - President of the RCGP

Prof. Alan Maynard - York University

6pm for 6.30pm

Tuesday 5th April 2011

The Royal Society of Medicine - 1, Wimpole Street, London

Sign up at: <http://www.rsm.ac.uk/yf/trb27.php>